

Press release – Masters Study Fairs

Next stop: Masters!

Masters Study Fairs for Bachelor students and graduates

The Masters is the final stage of being a student for Bachelor graduates. The moment has come to make finishing touches for the CV, to specialise professionally and to gain valuable experience. The MASTER AND MORE fairs will provide guidance in the jungle of information and will support the choice of a study programme, with numerous exhibitors and accompanying lectures.

MASTER AND MORE connects prospective students and universities

The MASTER AND MORE study fairs offer prospective students the chance to make contact with numerous universities and business schools from all around the world. Also, different companies and organisations with exciting offers, such as dual-degree programmes, are represented at the Masters Study Fairs.

The visitors are able to have individual consultations and get information on Masters programmes in different areas such as business and management, languages and cultural studies, media, engineering and natural sciences. In addition to that, many of the participating institutions are giving keynote presentations on study courses and student life in general. As part of the accompanying conference programme, experts on education will speak about various study-related topics
